Now in order not to let our "boosters" down, it is up to us as good citizens to see that our homes, yards, gardens and premises in general are made as attractive as possible. Recently the City officials issued a "clean-up proclamation," asking that all unsightly grass, weeds, garbage and other trash be removed from yards, vacant lots, etc., in a general Spring cleanup. This is not asking too much, besides it is a good idea for our own benefit and for sanitary reasons to join in this clean-up drive.

Let's all join in the clean-up parade and give our towns a thorough face-lifting. You'll be surprised at the results it will bring.

With the situation back to normal in the community, two women who had been assisted began to feel they would like within their limitations, to reverse their roles. Although they could never express their gratitude in a financial way, they realized they could repay good neighbors.

Posing as a corrupt inspector who wants a part of the haul, he wins the confidence of the gunmen, and induces them to let him take part in the big job. In the course of the plotting with and against the gang, he is almost murdered on several occasions and becomes dangerously involved with the leader's girl.

Things roar to a smashing crescendo as the gum is captured by one of the killers and the gang successfully stages the million dollar theft. When an elaborately planned police dogget fails to thwart the getaway, Ladd is faced with the task of smashing the group single handedly.

And volunteer they did. After undergoing the necessary training, they became Gray Ladies. To pay for her uniform, one of the women began taking laundry. They now walk a mile each way and then ride two different busses to reach the Veterans Administration hospital where they serve. Steady and dependable, they have given freely of their time and energy in the hospital, where they bring a friendly note of home into the otherwise drab lives of the patients.

The Oil and Gas Industry
$105,431<sup>00</sup> Every Day
to 30,000 Mississippians

Mississippi's oil and gas industry has four processing plants located near Natchez, Yazoo City, Brookhaven and Laurel. They process 2,250,000 barrels of Mississippi crude annually and a substantial amount of condensate. They serve Mississippi markets with their products.

Approximately 1/3 of Mississippi's oil is produced by 30 independent or small operators, and the remaining 2/3 is divided among some 18 major oil and gas companies.

Last year Mississippi's expanding oil and gas industry paid $33 million to over 30,000 people in the state — $105,431<sup>00</sup> during every working day of the year! This included $15 million paid to the industry's 5,000 employees and more than $18 million to over 25,000 royalty and land owners in many areas of the state. By putting these new dollars directly into circulation, the oil and gas industry helped bring added prosperity to all Mississippians.

In addition to these payroll, rental and royalty payments, the oil and gas industry brings an annual $10 million in tax revenue to the state's treasury, and more $7 million a year in

If you have a chair which everyone who sits in it sticks to, try rubbing the chair with a cloth dampened with turpentine and follow it with a cloth moistened with linseed oil. Rub with both applications. The condition comes from a sticky varnish or a coating that was not allowed to dry properly.

Who was it that said, "A friend is one to whom one may pour out all the contents of one's heart, chaff and grain together, knowing that the gentlest of hands will take and sift it, keep what is worth keeping and with a breath of kindness, blow the rest away?"

"I don't believe anything throws me so completely off balance as to have someone say, after being introduced, 'I have met her before.' I am left with my mouth half open, and literally floundering for some sort of composure, and still struggling desperately for something fitting to answer.

There are some whom we have been introduced as many as four or five times, but as long as they acknowledge the introduction as though never having it carefully from your dress, or whatever, placing it on a sheet of moistened cotton and then placing another sheet of moistened cotton over it lightly and putting it in the refrigerator. Treated this way, and provided the flowers are strictly fresh, a corsage can last nearly two weeks.

Orchids are not nearly so delicate as they seem. They are pretty hardy considering their fragile-looking appearance. But never get water on the petals of orchids, sweet peas or lilies. It spots them and they are ruined. As soon as you have finished wearing an orchid, unwrap the stem end, and give the flower a drink of water between wearings, to refresh it.

According to Ralph Hill, professor of sociology at Chapel Hill's University of North Carolina, quarrels clear tensions that are normal in any marriage. Professor Hill states that if Romeo and Juliet had lived together long enough, even they would have quarreled.

Clashings are inevitable when two people undertake such a close relationship as marriage. The professor adds that "There are two reasons for the disagreements in marriage. First, that man and wife are from two entirely willing to let them abide in their mistaken conviction and let it go at that.

Margaret E. Sengbus tells us there is "No Time For Hate."

The elementary grades saw a film, "Pueblo Boy", Wednesday morning in the auditorium. The picture, produced by the Ford Motor Co. and shown through the courtesy of Bay Motors, showed life of the Pueblo Indians, with original recordings of tribal dances and festivals.

There have been many absences this week in the lower grades, especially the Third grade, due to prevailing chicken pox. The fifth grade have developed a keen interest in their Science classes recently. Live specimens of tadpoles and crayfish have been observed.

SOCIAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT
On last Thursday afternoon Miss Blaize accompanied the American Government class on a visit to the Court House.

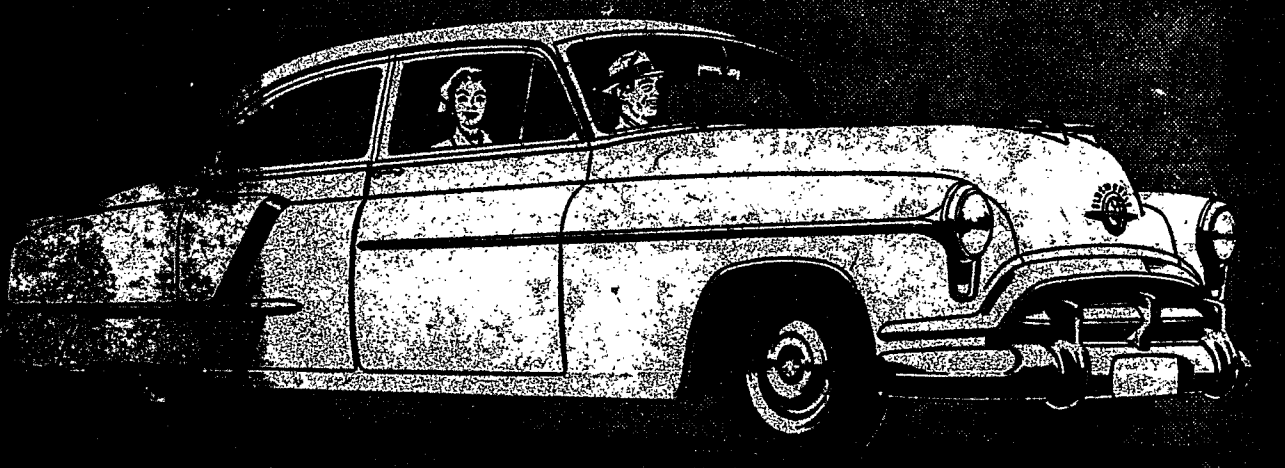

Mr. A. C. Mitchell, Clerk of Courts, took the class on a tour of the various departments of the Court House and explained the functions of each beginning with the Board of Supervisors. Mr. Mitchell emphasized the importance of the Court House in the county system of government.

The group's tour was a most interesting one. Some of the students' families were located up Miss Conover's Street, made photographic copies of drivers licenses for two of the students. Thus they gave them a complete demonstration, including driving and parking.

Clasborne Linder showed the group the assessment books and explained how increased exemptions are made. They then visited the jail, accompanied by Sheriff John Egolf and Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Egolf pointed out improvements made such as the repainting of the jail and how the prisoners cooperate with one another in keeping the jail clean.
